RUSSIANS ARE RETREATING

The Army of Kuropatkin Is Going North-West.

THE JAPS PURSUING

The Japs Have Captured Lio Yang but Report Heavy Loss----Russians Burned Their Store Houses.

LATEST NEWS FROM FAR EAST

The only direct news from the seat of war bearing Sunday's date, came by way of Tokio in a report from Field Marshal Opana, saying that Liao Yang fell completely into the hands of the Japanese at nine o'clock that morning, that the Japanese casualties were believed to be heavy, and that nothing was known by the Japanese concerning conditions on the right bank of the Tai-Tse River.

The only comfort for the Russians at home was the news, conveyed in a report from Gen. Kuropatkin, dated Saturday, that General Stakelberg's First Siberian Army Corps of 25,000 men, reported Saturday as having been cut off to the westward of Liao Yang had been safely extricated and that the corps had succeeded in joining the main Russian body on the right band of the river, but no details of the escape of Stakelberg are known. General Kuropatkin also reported that the greater portion of his army was at the time of filing the report south of Yentai mines, where fierce fighting had been in progress.

It is indicated that there has been a cessation of the fiercer fighting, Kuropatkin reporting that his men were not being much interfered with by the Japanese in the neighborhood of his army.

In St. Petersburg the absence of news is looked upon as heightening the gravity of the situation for the Russians.

It was reported in St. Petersburg Sunday night that Kuropatkin had arrived at Tiehling, which is ten miles north of Yenttai and eighteen miles south of Mukden

St. Petersburg, Sept. 4.—Emperor Nicholas this afternoon received a telegram from Gen. Kuropatkin asking for the immediate dispatch to the Far East of the Sixth Army Corps.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 4.—The Russian losses before Liao Yang on September 2 rs officially computed were 3,200.

The forces of Kuropatkin and Oyama are racing for Mukden. This much stands out in the news of Monday and is indicated in a report forwarded by Kuropatkin, who says that his retreat is being conducted in perfect order, though the Japanese on Sunday repeatedly attacked his rear and continued the attack until Monday. The result of the race is in doubt

The united Russian forces are now north of the Yentai, a station on the railway about ten miles northeast of Liao Yang. They are pushing on to Mukden, to which the bulk of the Japanese forces is marching direct, after having swarmed across the Taitse river. A strong Japanese flanking column is about thirty miles northeast of Liao Yang and is trying to get between the Russian forces and Mukden.

With this race in progress there comes a brief dispatch from Mukden saying that preparations for the evacuation of that place are proceeding. This report, if well founded, as is pointed out in the St. Petersburg dispatches, would mean the abandonment of the whole of Southern Manchuria and the winding up of the present campaign.

It was reported at St. Petersburg that General Kuropatkin's rear guard had been almost annihilated and the main Russian army was in danger of being surrounded.

General Kuropatkin makes no mention of the abandonment of 200 guns at Liao Yang, a rumor to which effect is in circulation.

Advices from Port Arthur, by way of Chefoo, bring the fighting there up to September 2, and say the Japanese losses were very heavy.

Mukden, September 5.—Preparations for the evacuation of Mukden are proceeding. The Japanese advance is within thirty miles.

St. Petersburg, September 5.—It is reported at a late hour that General Kuropatkin's rear guard has been almost annihilated and that the main Russian army is in imminent danger of being surrounded.

Chefoo, September 5.—Advices from Port Arthur say that following the terrific bombardment of the fortress for the five days ending September 1, heaps of Japanese bodies were removed by the Chinese under orders given by the Port Arthur authorities.

LONDON, September 6.—(4 a. m. Tuesday)—The Daily Mail this morning prints a dispatch from Sinmintin dated September 5 giving a report that General Kuropatkin's retreat has been cut off.

The dispatch goes on to say that the Russian troops had advanced in strong force to the southeast of Mukden as far as Japing Hill, to oppose any possible attack in the direction of their advance.

A Chinese official who arrived from Mukden Sunday says that the Russian troops are leaving for the north, that there are 108,000 men ten miles to the east of the city, that the officers and men have become depressed and that much sickness prevails.

RUSSIA'S STUPIDITY.

Washington Dispatch to Philadelphia Inquirer, Sept. 5.

Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador has lost no opportunity to impress upon the Washington government the futility of any efforts by any power to bring Russia to any attitude but rigid determination to fight the war to the bitter end.

"BLACK SPOT" HUNG.

Pays the Penalty on the Gallows at Clearfield.

In the jail yard at Clearfield Thursday morning, in the presence of about 125 spectators, Black Spot met his fate on the gallows for murder. The prisoner was accompanied to the gallows by his spiritual adviser, Rev. E. E. O'Brien, pastor of the Philipsburg A. M. E church, and Sheriff Staver and his deputy.

The prisoner faced the crowd and made a very touching address, in which he warned all present against drinking, bad women and gambling, and added that these were instrumental in bringing him to the gallows,

After a prayer by Rev. O'Brien, the black cap was placed over the prisoner's face and promptly at 10:31 Sheriff Staver touched the button and "Black Spot" dropped. He was pronounced dead fifteen minutes after the drop. His last words were. "Praise the Lord." Just as the black cap was being placed upon him, he had a smile on his face. He met death bravely, never shrinking the least bit under the awful ordeal.

The body was taken to his father's home in Virginia Thursday afternoon for burial

"Black Spot" wrote a long letter to his father, brother and sister in Virginia, Wednesday, in which he told of his conversion, his hope for the future, and the necessity for keeping away from cards, bad women and strong drink. The letter was five pages in length and was a very pathetic epistle. In it he recounted the kindly treatment accorded him by the sheriff, deputy and turnkey and the public in general, the jail and surroundings and how he had been employing his last days.

The crime for which "Black Spot" was hung was the killing of Foreman John Williamson, of the B. & S. railroad company, near DuBois, on the 29th of Sept. last. He pleaded "not guilty" to the crime, and his attorney's made a strong plea in his behalf, but he was convicted on circumstantial evidence. The Supreme court refusing him a new trial, he soon after made a confession of guilt, and also confessed to three other murders.

Up until the very last the condemned man remained in a seemingly cheerful frame of mind. To those who conversed with him he said his troubles would soon be over, and expressed confidence in the belief that he would be saved. His talk is said to have been earnest and candid, without any display of boastfulness, and had the ring of sincerity.

SENATOR PATTON PASSES AWAY

His Death Occurred Quite Suddenly Monday Morning.

DUE TO HEART FAILURE

Died at His Home in Curwensville—Was One of the Most Prominent Men in the Central Part of the State

FUNERAL TAKES PLACE SATURDAY.

Death has again laid its icy finger upon one of the most prominent men in this section of the state, in the person of State Senator Alexander E. Patton, who died at his home in Curwensville Monday morning at 4 o'clock. Senator Patton was taken ill only last Saturday with hemorrhages of the lungs and he gradually grew weaker until death ensued. It comes as a great shock to his friends in this district, especially so, as he looked in the most robust health when here last Wednesday to attend the funeral of his friend, Colonel Reeder. Death has taken during the past two years some of the State's most prominent men, but probably none will be more sincerely missed than Senator Patton, who was unusually popular and who was being actively boomed for Governor.

Alexander Ennis Patton was born in Curwensville, Clearfield county, October 20, 1852. He was educated in the common schools of his native town, Dickinson Seminary, Chester Military Academy and Philips Academy, Andover, Mass. He started out for himself at nineteen years of age, went to Iowa and engaged in farming and the nursery business. Returned to his native town in 1877 and accepted a position in the Curwensville Bank. He has been identified with the development of coal, railways and the industrial world. Took an active interest in the common schools, was twice president of the Directors convention of Clearfield county was a trustee of Dickinson College and a director of Dickinson Seminary. Served as a delegate to the county, state and national conventions. He was one of the electors-at-large from Pennsylvania at the Presidential election in 1896 and was elected to the State Senate in 1902.

The sudden death of Senator Patton is causing wide spread comment whenever this genial gentleman, was known. Further particulars bring to light the fact that death was due to heart failure. Saturday evening he attended a dinner party at the residence of a neighbor, R. D. Swope Esq., and about 9 o'clock he was taken ill with acute indigestion and remained all night at the home of Mr. Swope. On Sunday he was much better and went to his own home, two doors from the Swope residence where he died Monday morning.

In every department of life Senator Patton left his impress for good for he was a man of honorable convictions and pure motives and his influences was always given to what he believed to be right. He was a man of positive character and possessed the courage and ability to maintain his convictions on all occasions and under every circumstance of life. Such men are a great loss to the state, as well as to the community in which they live, and all who admire true manhood will mourn the loss of Senator Patton,

Deceased is survived by his wife and three children, H. J., Edith and Alexander E. Jr., and four brothers and two sisters, as follows: Hon. John Patton of Grand Rapids, an ex-United States Senator; Charles E., Curwensville; William F. Kansas City and Frank Patton, Reading; Mrs. C. S. Russell, Curwensville and Mrs. Edmund L. Gross of Paris, France. The latter is at present at Curwensville on a visit.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, which will give his brother Charles time to reach home from California, where he went to attend the Knights Templar conclave.

In 1877 he accepted a position with the Curwensville bank, of which he was the cashier for years and at the time of his death. He was also connected with the Patton bank. He helped to organize the Chest Creek Land & Improvement company with a capital of $600,000 and became its secretary and treasurer. The Patton Coal Co. was next formed with a capital of $40,000 and Mr. Patton became secretary and treasurer. The town of Patton was named by the son in honor of his father, Hon. John Patton, who served a term in congress from the district in which this county was then a part.

He was largely instrumental in building the Clearfield & Mahoning railroad from DuBois to Clearfield. He was made a director of that road and several others traversing that section of country. November 7, 1898 he secured a charter for the West Branch Valley railroad, now in operation from Keating to Clearfield. The survey of this line was made at his own expense and he afterwards interested the New York Central in the enterprise and building of the road was undertaken by this company.

For years Mr. Patton furnished employment to thousands of men and never had any labor troubles, meeting every reasonable demand of his employes and thus avoiding strikes. In November 1902 he was elected state senator from the 34th district, composed of Clearfield, Centre and Clinton counties, by the largest majority ever given a candidate in the district.

Forty-Third Anniversary.

In accordance with arrangements last year at the home of Captain W. H. Fry, at Pine Grove Mills, the survivors of Company E, Forty-fifth Pennsylvania volunteers, held their annual reunion this year at the home of Lieut. A. W. Harper at Philipsburg Friday, it being the forty-third anniversary of the company leaving for the war, 100 men strong.

Two years later the company was recruited to 190 men. The survivors present at this meeting were: A. W. Harper James Dennis, T. A. Jackson, J. R. Lemon, J. G. Heberling, J. R. Pheasant, Henry Barto, W. H. Musser, Joseph Meyers, Perry Copp, T. M. Lincle, George C. Deter, William Ellenberger, W. H. Fry, with a number of veterans of other commands, and a large number of neighbors who assembled to do honor to the "boys in blue."

W. H Musser was chosen master of ceremonies. Dinner was announced on the lawn at 12.30, and it was a great layout—the best that the market could produce. When dinner was over an impromptu campfire was set a burning. Captain C. T. Fryberger, of Philipsburg, in a neatly cut speech assured the old comrades of their welcome to the town, and Captain W. H. Fry made the presentation speech that formally gave Comrade Harper a handsome silver top cane with appropriate inscription. J. R. Lemon, J. G. Heberling and W. H. Musser all rolled big logs on the fire, and with others kept it blazing all the afternoon.

Since the last meeting of the company Captain Henry Stevens, D. A. Kennedy, Savastine Fisher answered the last roll call, and W. H. Fry, J. G. Heberling and J. R. Lemon were appointed a committee to prepare a tribute to their memory. Gatesburg was selected as the place for the holding of next year's meeting. A group photograph was taken of the company, and one also of the entire assemblage. In the evening the old comrades and friends separated, hoping for a good meeting a Gatesburg next year.

During the war company participated in the following engagements, during its four years' service: James Island, S. C., Fort Pulaski, S. C., Falmouth, Va., South Mountain, Antietam, Md., Fredericksburg, Va., Jamestown Ky., Vicksburg, Miss., Jackson, Miss., Cumberland Gap, Md., Blue Spring, Ky., Knoxville, Tenn, Wilderness, Va., Cold Harbor, Va., Petersburg, Va., Palmers Farm, Va., Friedericksburg, Va., Appomattox.

NEW COUNTY CHAIRMAN

Philip D. Foster to Lead Republican Hosts

SUCCEEDS COL. REEDER

Elected at a Large and Enthusiastic Meeting of the Republican County Committee Held on Monday in Bellefonte.

THE SELECTION IS A GOOD ONE

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Republican County committee was held Monday morning at 11 o'clock in the Republican headquarters in the Bush Arcade Hall. In spite of the fact that it was Labor Day and there were many counter attractions to draw people to other points in the state, yet forty-six members of the Republican County committee were present at this meeting. It was called to order at 11 o'clock by Secretary G. W. Reer, with secretaries, Harry Keller and Col. E. R. Chambers in their respective places. The first thing in order was the roll call which was called by Col. E. R. Chambers.

Previous to the meeting there was a meeting of the Executive Committee and recommended J. N. Schoonover, of Philipsburg, for chairman of the meeting and he was unanimously elected by the convention. DeLaun Stewart read the report of the Executive committee which they recommended the appointing of a committee to draft resolutions in memory of Col. Reeder and Senator Patton. The chair then appointed the following committee: Harry Keller, of Bellefonte, H. C. Woodring, of Werth; H. S. Stuart, of Rush twp; W. M. Allison, of Gregg twp; Clement Dale, of Bellefonte. The committee then retired to draw up the resolutions.

The next thing in order was the nominating of candidates for County Chairman to succeed the late Col. Reeder. The name of Hard P. Harris was placed in nomination by Frank McFarlane, of Boalsburg. Andrew Ly tle, of College township, placed in nomination Philip D. Foster, our present efficient County Treasurer. Mr. Wigton, of Philipsburg, moved that the vote be taken by secret ballot. This motion carried on a rising vote; 21 to 16. The convention then proceeded to ballot for County Chairman with the result that Foster had 36 and Harris 10. Foster was therefore declared elected.

The election of Foster as County Chairman, was received with much enthusiasm and general satisfaction. Mr. Foster is young, energetic, popular and will make an excellent County Chairman.

The committee on resolutions then reported. Mr. Keller, the chairman, read the resolutions.

WHEREAS. God in his all wise, but inscrutable providence has seen fit to remove from us, our able and efficient County Chairman, Col. Wilbur F. Reeder, who was suddenly called from time to eternity on the 28th of August last, at the very threshold of a brilliant and successful political and civic career;

AND WHEREAS, our late distinguished Chairman had, upon many occasions in the past, led our party to victory, and had entered upon the present important campaign with the same characteristic energy and executive ability that had always attended his political efforts, with the fullest promise of repeating his successes of former campaigns;

Therefore be it resolved, that the memory of his untiring labor and activity in behalf of the Grand Old Republican party shall arouse us to emulate his noble example and virtues and to roll up a decisive majority for President Roosevelt and the whole Republican State and County ticket this fall.

And be it further resolved, that we tender the family of our deceased leader our deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement, and trust that the Providence that has so severely chastened them may assist them to bear in humble submission their crushing affliction.

Judge Love was then called upon and made an excellent address urging upon the party workers the importance of the campaign and that it was their duty to bend every effort toward party success. He asked the party to stand to together, and drop all spite and criticisms.

Girl Rescued by Porker.

Mattie Dodson is a Red Rock (Pa.) girl, aged 12, and one day last week she was sent to the spring house for a pan of milk. She got the pan and on her way home set it in the grass to pick some berries. When she turned again she saw a rattlesnake six feet away, drinking the milk. The snake saw her, too, and coiled as if to strike. The little girl was paralyzed with fear and had not the power to even call for help. She simply clasped her hands and gazed at the reptile in helpless terror.

A fat hog sauntering around in search of food, came in sight, and in a moment made for the snake, and Mattie, now at a safe distance, watched the battle with wonder. The snake more than once bit the hog, but each time the beast received the bite in the jaw, where the great layers of fat made the poison harmless. When the snake exhausted the venom, it decided to retreat, but the hog then took the innings. Jumping on his carcass he pinned it to the earth, and with his teeth tore it to pieces and ate it. Mattie carried home the milk and told her story to sympathetic ears.

A Jolly Crowd of Campers at Hecla Park.

A jolly crowd of young people from Nittany and Salona who have been camping at Hecla Park the past ten days broke camp Monday.

They lived a true gypsy life while in camp, and were the jolliest crowd anyone could have met. The corn roast in honor of Bellefonte camp was a decided success. McIntire winning the honors. Those who visited the camp were Dr. Shook and wife, of Chicago, Miss Rase, McGee's Mills, Mrs. W. Beck, Miss Lily McCaleb, of Pittsburg, Mr. McCormick and wife, of Hublersburg, H. A. Clark, Montrose, Pa., Mr. Rasser Mill Hall, and Miss Anna Pines, the beautiful soprano singer, of Lewisburg. Miss Winkleman who was the first nurse to graduate from the Lock Haven hospital chaperoned the crowd. she is known so well, as an excellent nurse, that it is useless to give our opinion concerning her ability in nursing sick "soldiers" in camp.

A Visitor.

New Senator to be elected.

On account of the death of Senator A. E. Patton, a new senator will have to be choosen to fill the vacancy. This will be done at the election in November. The senatorial district comprizes Clearfield, Clinton and Centre. It is now a question which county will get the nominee. Here is the law on the subject of filling vacancies.

"Members of the senate shall be elected every four years. Their terms of service shall begin on the first day of December next after their election. Whenever a vacancy shall occur the presiding officer shall issue a writ of election to fill such vacancy for the ensuing term.

The political parties will have to do some hustling as October 4 is the last day for filing nomination papers.

Lonebarger—Meyers.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Harry Lonebarger and Miss Helen Meyers both of Boalsburg, were united in marriage by Rev. Stonecypher. The happy affair occurred at the brides home, and was witnessed by only a few friends and the immediate families.

out sacrificing certain necessary points, and the coroner went relentlessly to work.

"How long have you been in this house?"

"Three weeks—ever since Mrs. Jeffrey's wedding day, sir."

"Were you there when she first came as a bride from the Moore house?"

"I was, sir."

"And saw her then for the first time?"

"Yes, sir."

"How did she look and act that first day?"

"I thought her the gayest bride I had ever seen, then I thought her the saddest, and then I did not know what to think. She was so merry one minute and so frightened the next, so full of talk when she came running up the steps and so struck with silence the minute she got into the parlor, that I set her down as a queer one till some one whispered in my ear that she was suffering from a dreadful shock—that ill luck had attended her marriage and much more about what had happened from time to time at the Moore house."

"And you believed what was told you?"

"Believed?"

"Believed it well enough to keep a watch on your young mistress to see if she were happy or not?"

"Oh, sir!"

"It was but natural," the coroner suavely observed. "Every one felt interested in this marriage. You watched her, of course. Now, what was the result? Did you consider her well and happy?"

The girl's voice sank, and she cast a glance at her master which he did not lift his head to meet.

"I did not think her happy. She laughed and sang and was always in and out of the rooms like a butterfly, but she did not wear a happy look except now and then when she was seated with Mr. Jeffrey alone. Then I have seen her flush in a way to make the heart ache. It was such a contrast, sir, to other times when she was by herself or"—

"Or what?"

"Or just with her sister, sir."

The defiance with which this was said added point to what otherwise might have been an unimportant admission.

"You refer to Miss Tuttle?" observed the coroner.

"Mrs. Jeffrey's sister? Yes, sir." The menace was gone from the voice now, but no one could forget that it had been there.

"Miss Tuttle lived in the house with her sister, did she not?"

"Yes, sir, till that sister died and was buried; then she went away."

The coroner did not pursue this topic preferring to return to the former one.

"So you say that Mrs. Jeffrey showed uneasiness ever since her wedding day. Can you give me any instance of this—mention, I mean, any conversation overheard by you which would show us just what you mean?"

"I don't like to repeat things I hear, but if you say that I must I can remember once passing Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey in the hall just as he was saying: 'You take it too much to heart! I expected a happy honeymoon. Somehow we have failed'— That was all I heard, sir. But what made me remember his words was that she was dressed for some afternoon reception and looked so charming and so—and so, as if she ought to be happier."

"Just so. Now, when was this? How long before her death?"

"Oh, a week or so. It was very soon after the wedding day."

"And did matters seem to improve after that? Did she appear any better satisfied or more composed?"

"I think she endeavored to, but there was something on her mind, something which she tried to laugh off, something that annoyed Mr. Jeffrey and worried Miss Tuttle, something which caused a cloud in the house for all the dances and dinners and goings and comings. I am sorry to speak of it, but it was so."

"Something that showed an unsettled mind?"

"Almost. The glitter in her eye was not natural; neither was the way she looked at her sister and sometimes at her husband."

"Did she talk much about the catastrophe which attended her wedding? Did her mind seem to run on that?"

"Incessantly at first; but afterward not so much. I think Mr. Jeffrey frowned on that subject."

"Did he ever frown on her?"

"No, sir—not—not when they were alone or with no one by but me. He seemed to love her then very much."

"What do you mean by that, Loretta; that he lost patience with her when other people were present—Miss Tuttle, for instance?"

"Yes, sir. He used to change very much when—when—when Miss Tuttle came into the room."

"Change toward his wife?"

"Yes, sir."

"How?"

"He grew more distant, much more distant; got up quite fretfully from his seat, if he were sitting beside her, and took up some book or paper."

"And Miss Tuttle?"

"She never seemed to notice, but"—

"But?"

"She did not come in very often after this had happened once of twice—I mean into the room upstairs where they used to sit."

"Loretta, I regret to put this question, but after your replies I owe it to the jury, if not to the parties themselves, to make Miss Tuttle's position in this household thoroughly understood. Do you think she was a welcome visitor in this house?"

"I can only repeat what I once heard said about this by Mr. Jeffrey himself. Miss Tuttle had just left the dining room and Mrs. Jeffrey was standing in one of her black moods, with her hand on the top of her chair, ready to go, but forgetting to do so. I was there, but neither of them noticed me; he was staring at her, and she was looking down. Neither seemed at ease. Suddenly he spoke and asked, 'Why must Cora remain with us?' She started and her look grew strange and frightened. 'Because I want her to,' she cried. 'I cannot live without Cora.'"

These words, so different from what we were expecting, caused a sensation in the room and consequently a stir. As the noise of shifting feet and moving heads began to be heard in all directions, Miss Tuttle's head drooped a little, but Francis Jeffrey did not betray any sign of feeling or even of attention. The coroner, embarrassed, perhaps, by this exhibition of silent misery so near him, hesitated a little before he put his next question. Loretta, on the contrary, had gathered courage with every word she spoke and now looked ready for anything.

"It was Mrs. Jeffrey, then, who clung most determinedly to her sister?" the coroner finally suggested.

"I have told you what she said."

"Yet these sisters spent but little time together?"

"Very little; as little as two persons could who lived together in one house."

This statement, which seemed such a contradiction to her former one, increased the interest, and much disappointment was covertly shown when the coroner veered off from this topic and brusquely inquired:

"Did you ever know Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey to have any open rupture?"

The answer was a decided one.

"Yes. On Tuesday morning preceding her death they had a long and angry talk in their own room, after which Mrs. Jeffrey made no further effort to conceal her wretchedness. Indeed, one may say she began to die from that hour."

Mrs. Jeffrey's death had occurred on Wednesday evening.

"Let us hear what you have to say about this quarrel and what happened after it."

The girl, with a renewed flush, cast a deprecatory look at the mass of faces before her, and, meeting on all sides but one look of intense and growing interest, drew up her neat figure with a relieved air and began a story which I will proceed to transcribe for you in the fewest possible words.

Tuesday morning's breakfast had been a silent one. There had been a ball the night before at some great place on Massachusetts avenue; but no one spoke of it. Miss Tuttle made some remark about a friend she had met there, but as no one listened to her she soon stopped and in a little while left the table. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey sat on, but neither said anything. Finally Mr. Jeffrey rose and, speaking in a voice hardly recognizable, remarked that he had something to say to her, and led the way to their room. Mrs. Jeffrey looked frightened as she followed him; so frightened that it was evident that something very serious had occurred or was about to occur between them. As nothing of this kind had ever happened before, Loretta could not help waiting about till Mr. Jeffrey reappeared, and when he did so and she saw no signs of relief in his face or manner, she watched, with the silly interest of a girl who had nothing else to occupy her mind, to see if he would leave the house in such a mood and without making peace with his young bride. To her surprise, he did not go out at the usual time, but went to Miss Tuttle's room, where for a full half hour he remained closeted with his sister-in-law, talking in excited and unnatural tones. Then he went back for a few minutes to where he had left his wife in her own boudoir. But he could not have had much to say to her this time, for he presently came out again and ran hastily downstairs and out, almost without stopping to catch up his hat.

As it was Mary's business, and not the witness', to make Mrs. Jeffrey's bed in the morning, Loretta could think of no excuse for approaching her mistress' room at this moment; but later, when letters came, followed by various messages and some visitors, she went more than a dozen times to Mrs. Jeffrey's door. She was not admitted, nor were her appeals answered, except by a sharp "Go away!"

Nor was Miss Tuttle received any better, though she tried more than once to see her sister, especially as night came on and the hour approached for Mr. Jeffrey's return. Mrs. Jeffrey was simply determined to remain alone, and when dinner time arrived, and no Mr. Jeffrey, she could be induced to open her door only wide enough to take in the cup of tea which Miss Tuttle insisted upon sending her.

The witness here confessed that she had been very much excited by these unusual proceedings and by the effect which they seemed to have on the lady just mentioned, so she was ready to notice that Mrs. Jeffrey's hand shook like that of an old and palsied woman when she reached out for the tray.

Gladly would Loretta have caught one glimpse of her face, but it was hidden by the door; nor did Mrs. Jeffrey answer a single one of her questions. She simply closed her door and kept it so till toward midnight, when Miss Tuttle, coming into the hall, ordered the house to be closed for the night. Then the long shut door softly swung open; but, before any one could reach it, it was again pulled to and locked.

The next day brought no relief. Miss Tuttle, who had changed greatly during this unhappy day and night, succeeded no better than before in getting access to her sister, nor could Loretta gain the least word from her mistress till toward the latter part of the afternoon, when that lady, ringing her bell, gave her first order.

"A substantial dinner!" she cried. And when Loretta, greatly relieved, brought up the required meal she was astonished to find the door open and herself bidden to enter. The sight which met her eyes staggered her. From one end of the room to the other were signs of great nervous unrest and of terrible suffering. The chairs were pushed into corners as if the wretched bride had tramped the floor in an agony of excitement. Curtains were torn, and the piano cover was hanging half on and half off the open upright, as if she had clutched at it to keep herself from falling. On the floor beneath lay several pieces of broken china—vases of whose value Mrs. Jeffrey had often spoken, but which, jerked off with the cover, had been left where they fell—while immediately in front of the fireplace lay one of the rugs, tossed into a heap, as if she had rolled in it on the floor or used it to smother her cries of pain or anger.

So much for the state in which the witness found the boudoir. The adjoining bedroom was not in much better case, though it was evident that the bed itself had not been lain in since it was made up the day before at breakfast time. By this token, Mrs. Jeffrey had not slept the night before, or if she had laid her head anywhere it had been on the rug already spoken of.

These signs of extreme mental suffering, so much more extreme than any Loretta had ever before witnessed, frightened her so that the tray shook in her hand as she set it down on the table among the countless objects Mrs. Jeffrey always had about her. The noise seemed to startle her mistress, who had walked to the window after opening the door, for she wheeled impetuously about and Loretta saw her face. It was as if a blight had passed over it. Once gay and animated beyond the power of any one to describe, it had become in twenty-four hours a ghost's face, with the glare of some awful resolve on it; or so it would appear from the way Loretta described it.

Loretta, who was evidently accustomed to seeing her mistress arrayed in brilliant colors and much begemmed, laid great stress on the fact that, though it was on the verge of evening and she was evidently going out, she was dressed in black cloth and without even a diamond or a flower to relieve its severe simplicity. Her hair, too, which was always her pride, was piled in a careless mass upon her head as if she had tried to arrange it herself and had forgotten what she was doing while her fingers were but half through their work. There was a cloak lying on a chair near which she was standing and she held a hat in her hand, but Loretta saw no gloves. As the maid's glance and that of her mistress crossed, Mrs. Jeffrey spoke, and the effort she made in doing so naturally frightened the girl still more. "I am going out," were her words. "I may not be home till late— What are you looking at?"

Loretta declared that the words took her by surprise and that she did not know what to say, but managed to cover up her embarrassment by intimating that if her mistress would let her touch up her hair a bit she would make her look more natural.

At this suggestion Mrs. Jeffrey cast a glance in the glass and impetuously declared, "It doesn't matter." But she seemed to think better of it the next minute; for, throwing herself in a chair, she bade the girl to bring a comb and sat quietly enough, though evidently in a great tremor of haste and impatience, while Loretta combed her hair and put it up in the old way.

But the old way was not as becoming as usual, and Loretta was wondering if she ought to call in Miss Tuttle when Mrs. Jeffrey jumped to her feet and went over to the table and began to eat with the feverish haste of one who forces herself to take food in spite of hurry and distaste.

This was the moment for Loretta to leave the room, but she did not know how to do so. She felt herself fixed to the spot and stood watching Mrs. Jeffrey till that lady, suddenly becoming conscious of the girl's presence, turned, and in the midst of the moans which broke unconsciously from her lips said with a pitiable effort at her old manner:

"Go away, Loretta; I am ill; have been ill for two days. I don't like people to look at me like that!" Then, as the girl shrank back, she added in a breaking voice, "When Mr. Jeffrey comes home"— and said no more for several minutes, during which she clutched her throat with both hands and struggled with herself till she got her voice back and found herself able to repeat: "When Mr. Jeffrey comes, if he does come, tell him that I was right about the way that novel ended. Remember that you are to say to him the moment you see him that I was right about the novel and that he is to look and see if it did not end as I said it would. And, Loretta"— here she rose and approached the speaker with a sweet, appealing look which brought tears to the impressionable girl's eyes—"don't go gossiping about me downstairs. I shan't be sick long. I am going to be better soon, very soon. By the time you see me here again I shall be quite like my old self. Forget how—how"— and Loretta said she seemed to have difficulty in finding the right word here —"how childish I have been."

Of course Loretta promised, but she is not sure that she would have had the courage to keep all this to herself if she had not heard Mrs. Jeffrey stop in Miss Tuttle's room on her way out. That relieved her and enabled her to go downstairs to her own supper with more appetite than she had thought ever to have again. Alas, it was the last good meal she was able to eat for days! In three hours afterward a man came from the station house with the news of Mrs. Jeffrey's suicide in the horrible old house in which she had been married only two weeks before.

As this had been a continuous narrative and concisely told, the coroner had not interrupted her. When at this point a little gasp escaped Miss Tuttle and a groan broke from Francis Jeffrey's hitherto sealed lips the feelings of the whole assemblage seemed to find utterance. A young wife's misery culminating in death on the very spot where she had been so lately married! What could be more thrilling or appeal more closely to the general heart of humanity? But the cause of that misery! This was what every one present was eager to have explained. This is what we now expected the coroner to bring out. But instead of continuing on the line he had opened up he proceeded to ask:

"Where were you when this officer brought the news you mention?"

"In the hall, sir. I opened the door for him."

"And to whom did he first mention his errand?"

"To Miss Tuttle. She had come in just before him and was standing at the foot of the stairs"—

"What! Was Miss Tuttle out that evening?"

"Yes; she went out very soon after Mrs. Jeffrey left. When she came in she said that she had been around the block, but she must have gone around it more than once, for she was absent two hours."

"Did you let her in?"

"Yes, sir."

"And she said she had been around the block?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did she say anything else?"

"She asked if Mr. Jeffrey had come in."

"Anything else?"

"Then if Mrs. Jeffrey had returned."

"To both of which questions you answered"—

"A plain 'No.'"

"Now tell us about the officer."

"He rang the bell almost immediately after she did. Thinking she would want to slip upstairs before I admitted any one, I waited a minute for her to go, but she did not do so, and when the officer stepped in she"—

"Well?"

"She shrieked."

"What! Before he spoke?"

"Yes, sir."

"Just at sight of him?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did he wear his badge in plain view?"

"Yes; on his breast."

"So that you knew him to be a police officer?"

"Yes."

RUSSIANS RETREAT

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1.—Lieutenant-General Sakharoff, telegraphing to the General Staff on the conclusion of yesterday's sixteen hours of fighting around Liao Yang, estimates that the Russian casualties throughout the day were 3,000.

The battle ended at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, when many positions occupied by the Japanese were retaken and again held by the Russians.

From 5 o'clock Wednesday morning until 9 o'clock Wednesday night the Japanese forces attacked our frontal positions before Liao Yang and on the left bank of the Taitse river.

Both their artillery and rifle fire were intense.

Their main efforts were directed against our centre positions and left flank, but numerous attacks were repulsed along the whole line.

Our troops made several counter attacks, culminating in bayonet fighting.

Many positions which had been occupied by the Japanese were taken at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

During the artillery attack our batteries did very effective work.

About four Wednesday afternoon the enemy was observed attempting to turn our right flank with considerable forces but several battalions of reserves advanced, and after a fierce engagement checked the Japanese and compelled them to retire.

The battle continued until after dark and only ended at 9 o'clock.

The spirit of our troops is excellent, and the men are rejoiced over the news of the heroic behavior of the garrison at Port Arthur, the repulsing of Japanese attacks upon which has been communicated to them.

Our casualties Wednesday were considerable, reaching about 3,000. The Japanese losses must have been heavy.

General Kuropatkin's effective forces are variously estimated at from 170,000 to 200,000 men. It is estimated by the General Staff that the Japanese armies engaged number seventeen divisions of 15,000 men each, or, allowing for inefficients, about 240,000 men.

Tokio, Sept. 2.—Tokio rings with shouts and cheers for the victory at Liao Yang. Lantern bearing crowds swing through the streets and surge around the staff offices, shouting "Banzai."

Tokio, Sep. 2.—Additional details of the fighting at Liao Yang, which are arriving here, clearly indicate its desperate character.

The Japanese have changed the method of numbering their armies since their union, calling Gen. Kuroki's army the right, Gen. Nodzu's the centre, and Gen. Oku's the left. A portion of the left column of the right wing after dislodging the Russians, occupying an eminence north of Hsuchiakon toward evening on August 30, was exposed to a violent attack by the reinforced Russians and retired during the night to a ridge south of Hsuchiakou, where they held their position. The Russians prepared to follow up their attack, but desisted. The right and centre of the right wing, with its main strength, commenced a movement at 11 o'clock on the night of August 30, crossing the Taitse river near Lientaowan, and advanced toward Huangkufen. It was anticipated that it occupied a line extending from Hanjaiazui to Tzuatuo, but details of the movement have not been reported. The Russian artillery fire against the column of the Japanese centre abated somewhat yesterday.

The infantry fight contined unabated. The Japanese held their positions.

The left column of the centre was vigorously engaged from Wednesday morning throughout the day, but its efforts to dislodge the Russians failed. The right column of the left wing resumed the attack Wednesday morning. Several assaults proved futile and the Japanese were driven back finally.

But reinforced, they again advanced and secured a position at noon on an eminence southwest of Hsinlintun. This ground proved to be an advantageous point from which a final and an effective charge was delivered at dawn Thursday, bringing the first victory.

The centre column, after repulsing the Russians in a night attack, with a portion of the left column succeeded in repulsing a series of assaults.

The Russians continued to hold an eminence west of Shoushanpao and defied all efforts to dislodge them. The eminence was finally taken by storm Thursday morning.

The entire left wing, with all its force, continued against the Russian line throughout Wednesday. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a force of Russians appeared five miles northwest of Shaushanpao. The Japanese reserves attacked it.

Late Wednesday night a telegram was dispatched to the general staff at Tokio, saying that the left wing, with all its guns, would renew the attack, and afterward charge against the enemy's position.

The lack of definite information from the seat of war continues up to this (Saturday) morning, and nothing further regarding the situation at Liao Yang is known beyond the fact that Kuropatkin has withdrawn the main portion of his forces to the north, or right bank of the Taitse river, and that, according to the latest advices, the action is still in progress.

There is disclination in St. Petersburg to believe that Liao Yang has been abandoned and at the same time it is declared that the position Kuropatkin now occupies is the one he had prepared and fortified, and where he has all along planned to make the second stand instead of directly in and around Liao Yang, with the river at his back, as has been believed. It is thought by Russian experts that in attacking Kuropatkin s present defenses the Japanese are facing an almost impossible task, especially with their forces divided by the river.

Advices reaching Tokio said Taitse is flooded and cannot be forded, and it is pointed out in the dispatches from St. Petersburg. The river itself becomes an important factor in the general scheme of Russian defense.

Dispatches from Russian and Japanese sources indicate that the troops on both sides are jaded and weary, after the many days' fighting And it is pointed out that in consequence a temporary lull in the active struggle would not be surprising.

A dispatch received at Tokio says that great fires are raging at Liao Yang, "believed to result from the Japanese shelling or from the efforts of the Russians to destroy their stores preparatory to the evacuation of Liao Yang, with the additional hope of injuring the city as a future Japanese base."

The opinion prevails in the Japanese capital that the Russian casualties in the recent fighting will reach 30,000, while the Russian losses of August 31 and September 1, are giving in unofficial reports as 5,000 killed or wounded.

The report from Marshall Oyama that he was engaged on Thursday with the Russian centre would indicate that at least a portion of Kuropatkin's army was still on the south bank of the river. It is not yet definitely said that the Japanese have occupied Liao Yang.

Berlin, Sept. 3.—Military specialists treat the news from Liao Yang as indicating a great Russian reverse that, with the railway northwest cut and bad roads may be turned into a rout. As today is being celebrated as the anniversary of the battle of Sedan, frequent allusions were made by editorial writers to the possibility of Liao Yang being the Sedan of the east and parallels were drawn between the two situations. The semi-official "North German Gazette" alone regards General Kuropatkin as saving his position by as skillful a retirement as possible. Lieutenant Colonel Oi, the Japanese military attache and Col. Chebeko the military attache of Russia, who was among the emperor's foreign guests at the review today, were looked upon with much curiosity by the other officers, especially when they saluted each other gravely on joining the emperor's party. The position of the Russian was considered to be exceptionally trying. The emperor spoke freely with Colonel Chebeko.

In some of the Swiss valleys the inhabitants are all afflicted with goitre or "thick neck." Instead of regarding this as a deformity they seem to think it a natural feature of physical development, and tourists passing through the valleys are sometimes jeered by the goitrous inhabitants, because they are without this offensive swelling. Thus a form of disease my become so common that it is regarded as a natural and necessary condition of life. It is so, to a large extent, with what are called diseases of women. Every woman suffers more or less from irregularity, ulceration, debilitating drains, or female weakness, and this suffering is so common and so universal that many women accept it as a condition natural and necessary to their sex. But it is a condition as unnatural as it is unnecessary. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription strengthens the delicate woman'y organs and regulates the womanly functions, so that woman is practically delivered from the pain and misery which eat up ten years of her life between the ages of fifteen and forty five. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well.

ACROSS THE XCHANGE TABLE.

The Altoona Tribune Commenting Editorially Says.

Green and Dillen, the murderers of the old turnkey at Bellefonte, have been justly convicted of murder in the first degree. Let us hope nothing will be permitted to interfere with the prompt execution of the jury's verdict and the sentence of the court. It is not heartlessness which prompts such a hope, but an earnest desire to see the murder of an officer avenged and a needed lesson taught the lawless.

The dangerous illness of ex Governor James A. Beaver, and the unexpected death of Wilbur F. Reeder, Esq., have created a feeling of gloom in Bellefonte as well as in other sections where the gentlemen named have many warm friends. The death of Mr. Reeder will be deeply regretted, while everybody will hope that the convalescence of General Beaver will continue until he has been restored to perfect health.—Altoona Tribune.

Deserve Their Fate.

There will be general satisfaction among the people in this section of the state over the conviction of Dillon and Green for the murder of Turnkey Condo, of the Centre County jail. These desperadoes deliberately murdered this old man and deserve the fate which awaits them. They had no mercy on their victim, and they deserve no mercy, Such men are always dangerous, and there will be no regret felt when Dillen and Green shall expiate their crime upon the scaffold.—Williamsport Sun.

The Loss of All.

The sudden death of Col. Wilbur F. Reeder, of Bellefonte, will be deeply regretted far beyond his own home. It was the cutting before the midday of his prospective career one of the brilliant figures of the interior of the state. As a lawyer he stood with the leaders of the interior, and politically he was the leader of the Republican forces in his own county and a counsellor in the conferences and conventions of the party wherever he would go. The public record which it had already been his part to make was clean and so thoroughly efficient that further preferment was assured. It has been rarely that the state produced a man who forged along in politics and public service with such strides at his age.

Colonel Reeder's cool counselling will be missed in the affairs of the Republican party in Centre county and this congressional and this senatorial district; and even at State conventions. Just now his unexpected removal will affect party organization in his own county cannot be told. He was the county chairman and was well fitted for the place by political sagacity, magnetic presence and unaffected warm heartedness which is an attribute of the popular leader of men.—DuBois Courier.

MILESBURG HAD A WALK-OVER.

Bellefonte Sons of Rest Nearly Wiped off the Face of the Earth.

Sad doings at Milesburg on Friday afternoon when the Sons of Rest of Bellewere defeated to a score of 14 to 4.

It has been the custom, and it almost seemed like a certainly for our boys to knock the blocks off the Milesburgers as they have defeated them in every game of ball that has been played this season. So the "Sons of Rest," thought of course they would have another foot race without much exertion, but how sadly they were fooled. The Milesburgers were like the little "Japs" they were getting ready for the game, and no one knew how they were doing so.

The game was played at the same old place, the "Cemetery Park" where the Milesburgers had gone down so often to defeat, but something supernatural seemed to inspire them and with their old time skill and enthusiasm they got down to hard work and it was awful how they did slaughter the "Sons of Rest."

Up until the eighth inning the Bellefonte boys never scored a run although they were often left on bases. Fulton was the first to cross over the meat platter at home base, and then they knew that it would not end in a "Zip."

Bill Rine pitched a fine game and if he would have had the right kind of support perhaps things might have been different.

Shope the south pawed man of Milesburg cracked one over into the old canal and landed on 3rd base.

"Red" Fulton the chain maker thought that he was connecting links, when the all became in contact with his bat and it flew through the air like a sky rocket and he likewise made a three bagger.

Hugg, the little German band, swing salesman, ladies man, buglar and base ballist, seemed to be the main guy with a red sash on, when he caught four beautiful flies and made a home run.

Campbell was right there with his puzzling curves which were always caught by Peck Johnston who was never known to drop them to the ground.

"Spotty" Johnston, Fulton and Haupt were all "muster" and gave the best kind of support all around, and did their share in winning the game.

We don't know what was the matter with our fellows, but they were not in it for a minute on Friday with the City down the "Pike."

Gaity Austin did the unpiring and he was all to the good.

Puts Flesh on Thin People

Vin-te-na builds tissue and muscle, fills out the hollow places, makes graceful curves instead of sharp angles, adds flesh to thin, bony figures, and strengthens as it builds. It improves the appetite, increases the assimilation of food, removes all impurities from the blood, and produces a quick restoration to general health, in fact a lasting cure.

Vin-te-na is not a "symptom remedy." It goes directly to the source of all weakness, and positively removes the cause. It acts quickly because it goes directly into the circulation, cleansing, strengthening and enriching the blood with the precise elements which the tired and weakened nervous system requires.

EDITORIAL.

OUR NEW COUNTY CHAIRMAN.

Philip D. Foster, who was on Monday elected County Chairman by the Republicans of Centre County, to succeed Wilbur F. Reeder, deceased, at once assumed the duties of that difficult position, with an energy and hustle that gives promise of good results in the impending campaign. We extend to him our congratulations and promise him the earnest support of the Bellefonte Republican in all that he may do to bring success to the Republican banner next November. We feel assured that the popularity, energy and aggressiveness which has always accompanied Mr. Foster in his undertakings, will follow him in his work as County Chairman and that therefore the prospects of the party of Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt were never brighter in Centre County than at present.

However, it is just as Judge Love said in his address to the County committee on Monday, this is not a personal campaign and its success or failure does not depend on the efforts of any one man. The burden and the heat of the day should fall on all good republicans alike. Each candidate on the county ticket is expected to do his share as well as every member of the county committee. A democratic victory in Centre this fall may change the political complexion of the county for years to come. We don't want that to come to pass so let us be up and doing and leave no stone unturned to insure victory.

Political Funds Needed.

Democrats need funds.—New York World.

What for?

Hasn't the country been informed that all that it was waiting for was Parker, and that the magic name would sweep everything before it.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The meeting of the County Committee on Monday was a large and enthusiastic one and the earnest, wholesome address of Hon. John G. Love should have a good effect upon the party workers. Nothing can succeed except work, and hard work at that.

Republicans do you want to change the political complexion of the county for years to come? If so elect Orvis to the bench.

THE GRAND ARMY.

Each annual gathering of the Grand Army veterans finds many of the comrades absent gone to answer the roll call beyond the Stygian shore, where the Blue and Gray will stand together before the Great Commander and be judged, not for what they were politically, but for what they did personally.

It is sad to think that soon, very soon, the Grand Army, so far as the veterans of the Civil War are concerned at least, will be naught but a memory. The services of these veterans were patriotic and enduring. They offered their lives that the nation might live. With their blood and the blood of their comrades who perished on the battlefield they preserved the Union. Washington and his ragged Continentals builded the republic; the soldiers of the Federal army preserved it from destruction. We revere the name of Washington and honor the memories of his dauntless and determined followers; we cannot do less for those who guarded from destruction the nation Washington and his men brought forth amid so much travail and distress.

The War of the Rebellion was a terrible mistake. This fact is now generally admitted even in the South. The Spanish-American war did much to heal the old sore and time will do the rest. The Confederate veterans were brave men and honest, but they were grievously in error, and while they now know it there remains a few too proud to admit it. We can afford to be chivalrous to a beaten foe. Let us respect their prejudices to the extent at least of not unduly provoking them.

How Can He Be Elected, Anyway?

The chief advocate of Parker in New York, the World, makes this confession:

No Democratic politician, not even the wildest of the "rainbow-chasers," pretends that Judge Parker can be elected without the vote of New York.

We wish some genuine Democrat who is not a rainbow chaser could be induced to explain how Judge Parker can be elected even with New York.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

O. T. LINGLE DIES OF INJURIES.

A Mistake Caused Him to Fall Forty Four Feet Down an Embankment.

Tuesday of last week a telegram was received by W. L. Lingle, of Spring Mills, stating that his son, Oliver Thomas, was badly injured while discharging his duties as brakeman on the Connelsville Central, a branch road of the Monongahela Railroad. A second telegram received on Wednesday, announced his death. The body arrived Thursday p. m. from Pittsburg, accompanied by eight members of the Brotherhood of Trainmen—James G. Blaine Lodge, No. 703, of which he was a member.

When the accident occurred, at 9.05 Tuesday A. M. Mr. Lingle was standing on the abutment of a large newly constructed bridge, waiting to jump the train as it passed him. It is supposed he made a mistep, landing on the cinders surrounding the abutment, and they giving way, precipitated him down over an embankment forty-four feet high. He was taken at once to the West Penn Hospital at Pittsburg, where he died on Wednesday 3.40 a. m.

Mr. Lingle was twenty-eight years of age. He leaves a father, mother, one sister and three brothers to survive him.

Interment was made on Friday, at the Cross Cemetery, Rev. W. C. Bierly, of the Evangelical church, officiating. Among the floral tributes, was a brake wheel, presented by the Brotherhood, who also conducted the funeral ceremonies.

THE GOLDEN EAGLES.

Annual Re-Union of the Susquehanna District at Lewisburg.

The annual re-union of the Susquehanna District, Knights of the Golden Eagle was held at Lewisburg on Labor Day September 5 and was the largest assembly of Knights that any town has entertained since the organization of the district seventeen years ago.

Bellefonte Castle No 357 attended the re-union 75 strong and was accompanied by the Coleville band. They were much complimented on their appearance in the line of parade and won the prize of $15 awarded to the Castle coming the greatest distance.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. President, G. F. M. Brungard, of Lock Haven; Thomas McClellen, secretary, and F. P. Musser, of Millheim, treasurer. It was decided to meet in Lock Haven next year on Labor Day.

Castles and commanderies were present from Williamsport, Milton, Watsontown, Bellefonte, Nittany, Mifflinburg, Danville, Catawissa, Spring Mills and other nearby towns. The parade was the largest ever held in the district, and the largest parade of any kind ever witnessed in Lewisburg. Lieutenant Colonel W. F. Barber, of the Twelfth Regiment, N. G. P., was chief marshal; Regimental Sergeant Mayor S. B. Wolfe, also of the Twelfth, was chief of staff. Company A. of the Twelfth, headed the parade, followed by the Lewisburg fire department, then by the Eaglee.

Prizes were awarded as follows: Best drilled commandery, Williamsport; coming greatest distance, Bellefonte; castle making finest appearance in parade, Catawissa; castle having largest percentage of men in line, according to membership, Mifflinburg, which had 90 per cent. of the membership in line.

A Pretty Home Wedding.

Quite a pretty home wedding took place at the home of Cyrus Hunter at Stormstown, when his daughter Maude was united in the holy bonds of matrimony with Clarence N. Goodman.

The rooms were decorated with beautiful flowers. Into the presence of about thirty invited guests the bride and groom entered unattended to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Jessie Way, a cousin of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. L. Eslinger of Stormstown. After partaking of a sumptuous repast the young and happie couple left for a tour of the eastern cities.

The bride was a successful school teacher in Centre county, while the groom is a cabinet apprentice in the shops at Altoona and a student of The Penn'a State College.

ELAINE ROZE'S PARISIAN TRIP.

Her Impressions of the Modes,—Frivolous little Peplums the Vogue—Waistcoats a Feature

I am back again with a budget of fashion news which I have culled for you from a most bewildering display of exquisite garments for mi-lady's adornment.

The splendor of the time when France was at the height of her luxurious extravagance seems to have returned, and after a tentative trial of 1830 and Directoire styles, Dame Fashion is contented at last with the Louis XVI inspiration for her motive.

Louis XVI coats as well as short paletots of colored suiting silks will be worn with fancy wool skirts, and when it comes to suit jackets there are no bounds to the whimsicalities one finds. The little basque is more and more in evidence and ofter takes on pert ways, like, for instance the frivolous little peplum. In all these garments the waistcoat is a pronounced feature. It is cut high and low, and is a veritable garment or only a presentiment of it.

With the popularity of the waistcoat and vogue of the fitted bodice an exquisitely fitting corset, such as the C B a la Spirite is even more essential than ever. It is the foundation upon which a properly fitting gown is built, and no woman of fashion but considers it the most important item of her wardrobe.

Fashions are said to be adaptable to each individual taste, which fact is in favor of the woman who has to study economy in dress, for the more voluminous styles in skirts are impossible for the pedestrian to carry in one hand above the grime of the streets, and she who prefers a walking skirt of comfortable length and build my wear it without fear of being outre.

The woman who prefers to wear the skirt that requires two hands to carry, if she wishes the operation to be at all graceful, is confronted with the problem of how to change her carefully acquired stride into a glide. This is rather a difficult transition, but it must be managed somehow, for in skirts, several yards round, and lying two inches on the floor in front, the athletic gait would be intolerable.

So in spite of the vogue of voluminous skirts, a gored skirt, springing gracefully at the hem, and not to wide for convenience is entirely correct.

A pretty model for general wear, and quite "dressy" enough for more formal wear is shown in a rich dark blue raw silk, with a skirt of medium width and fullness, and a chic little peplumed coat, the costume, appliqued in blue velvet, which is outlined in narrow white soutache braid, and worn over a charming white raw silk waistcoat.

Another pretty model which I have depicted for you is an afternoon or theatre gown of white Peau de Crepe, black and white lace being combined in yoke and sleeve-ruffles, and black velvet ribbon used as a finish for yoke, jabot and girdle.

WILL BLAZE THE WAY

Republican Clubmen Leading Fight For Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

A NEW SONG FOR THE CAMPAIGN

Chairman Penrose Procures Speakers of National Prominence For the State League's Convention at Reading.

[Special Correspondence.]

Reading, Sept. 6.

Pennsyl-Pennsyl-Pennsyl-vania!
Pennsyl-Pennsyl-Pennsyl-vania!
Pennsyl-Pennsyl-Pennsyl-vania!
She's going to blaze the way!
For Teddy and Fairbanks, too!
(To air of "Glory! Glory! Hallelujah!")

The above campaign song will be sung in every section of the commonwealth after the convention of the State League of Republican Clubs, which is to be held in Reading on September 21, 22 and 23.

Already enthusiastic Republican clubmen who are preparing to attend the convention are singing this song at home, and they expect to join in a mighty chorus when they get together in the convention from every county in the state and formally open the presidential election in Pennsylvania. The convention of the clubmen this year promises to be the greatest in the history of the league, and much of the credit for the success of the convention will be due to the active co-operation of Chairman Penrose and Secretary Andrews, of the Republican state committee, who have given every assistance possible to President John R. Wiggins and Secretary John Kelley and the other officers of the league and the members of the local committee of arrangements.

Senator Penrose made a personal appeal to Chairman Cortelyou, of the Republican national committee, and Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional committee, to send speakers of national reputation to the league's convention, and they have promised to comply with his request.

As the result of Senator Penrose's visit to New York, Candidate for Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, and Senator Joseph B. Foraker, of Ohio, are among others who have been assigned to address a mass meeting under the auspices of the State League, which will be held in the Reading Academy of Music on September 21. It is expected that there will be a number of other distinguished Republicans from other states to address the meeting in addition to many of the leaders of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania. Senator Penrose, Senator-elect Knox, Governor Pennypacker, Attorney General Carson and a host of others have been invited to be present. Every Republican member of congress from Pennsylvania is expected to attend, so that the gathering will be a notable one.

There will be music and fireworks galore and special excursions to Mount Penn and other points of attraction in and about Reading will be arranged for the entertainment of the delegates, alternates and other visitors to the convention. Secretary Kelley estimates that at least 250 clubs will be represented, and that the number of visitors who will accompany the delegates will be the largest on record.

The convention of the club league will be the inauguration of a brilliant series of Republican mass meetings to be held under the auspices of the Republican state committee. Senator elect Philander C. Knox, who has just returned from a trip abroad, had a conference with Chairman Penrose last week and agreed to speak at a mass meeting to be held in the Academy of Music in Philadelphia, under the direction of the Manufacturers' Club of that city. This will be one of the largest demonstrations that will be held in the state during the campaign. It is proposed to have a tremendous rally of employes of the various manufacturing plants in the Quaker City that have prospered under the protective tariff and which would be jeopardized in the event of the election of a Democratic president and of a Democratic congress favorable to the Democratic idea of free trade.

Capital and labor will figure conspicuously in this meeting, which is likely to be one of the most unique features of the presidential contest.

A large delegation of active Republicans from Allegheny county were in conference with Chairman Penrose last week relative to a series of monster mass meetings which they propose to hold in Pittsburg and vicinity. They submitted a list of orators they desired, which among others included Candidate Fairbanks, Speaker "Joe" Cannon, Senators Penrose and Knox, Governor Pennypacker, Attorney General Hampton L. Carson, Charles Emory Smith and General Thomas J. Stewart.

County Chairman Ford and City Chairman Leslie informed Chairman Penrose that Allegheny county will give Roosevelt and Fairbanks the largest majority that has ever been given to any Republican national ticket. They informed him that the party is united in Allegheny, and that the greatest enthusiasm prevails among the rank and file of the party organization.

The Christian Endeavor Convention, which was held in Centre Hall last Wednesday and Thursday has passed into history long to be remembered by many of the delegates, especially those who had never been in this town before. "What a beautiful town this is" was a common remark of many. The program having been printed in the different county papers and the exercises having been conducted with a few exceptions according to that program it is needless to give a full account of the proceedings. Lest I do some injustice I will only speak of one. The last speaker of Thursday evening who spoke on the subject "Take a Higher Plan," spoke of some of the solved and the unsolved problems that have confronting us as a nation. Of the former he spoke of the passing competition. Competition he said was unchristian, a statement every christian must agree with, as it is in direct violation of the doctrine of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man. And yet how many professing christians rejoice when a competing firm locates in their neighborhood, because they think they will then be able to buy goods cheaper. He spoke of the Trusts, which are driving competition to the wall, as one of the unsolved problems, and while he said nothing against them he was careful to say nothing in their favor. The convention owes much of its success to its wide awake hustling president James O. Pratt of Unionville and its other officers. Next year it meets in Lemont.

Harvest Home Services.

Harvest Home Services were held in St. John's Reformed church Sunday morning and in the Zion Reformed church at 2:30 p. m. The pastor Rev. Mr. Schmidt delivered appropriate sermons taking as his text Psalm 65, 11-13.

The decorations in St. John's church were elaborate and especially fine, a large pyramids of fruit, flowers and vegetables filled the recess of the church on either side of which were banked sheaves of oats and wheat, the pulpit was a mass of blooming vines while many flowers were grouped in the front of the church, the ladies in charge of the decorations deserve special credit for their work.

At Zion; fruits, flowers, vegetables, corn and grain made up the decorations. Sunday morning the Bellefonte Hospital was made glad by the receipt of the fruits, flowers and vegetables that had been used to adorn these churches.

The offerings of the two congregations amounted to $31, and were devoted to the "Relief of Disabled Ministers Fund."

Undertaker Figures in a Lively Runaway.

Undertaker George Seifrit with a rather serious accident recently he was on his way to Old Mosquito valley to prepare the remains of Jacob Larson for burial. Mr. Seifrit was driving along the road leisurely, when all at once the belly band of the harness broke and the buggy began to push on the horse. He was going down a pretty good grade and the harder the driver pulled on the lines the harder the buggy pushed on the horse. This started the animal on a rapid gait. All at once the buggy struck some object and Seifrit was thrown out of the buggy. The buggy was soon overturned and the horse ran down the road until he came to a lane. At this point the animal turned in but the buggy was caught and left behind.

When Seifrit picked himself up he could hardly walk, and upon examination it was found that he was somewhat bruised about the limbs. The horse escaped with very few scratches. The buggy shafts and the dash were completely wrecked. By borrowing a pair of shafts Mr. Seifrit was able to return home.—Oval Ledger.

State Chairman Confers With Cortelyou and Opens Campaign.

DISCUSSES THE SITUATION

Pennsylvania Republicans Urged to Roll Up a Record-Breaking Majority and to Rally to Congressional Candidates.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, August 30.

Senator Penrose having returned home from his vacation trip in the far west, matters have taken on a very active aspect in the campaign in this state. As chairman of the Republican state committee, the senior senator has serious responsibilities on his shoulders and will have his hands full until after election day.

In carrying out his purpose to make this a record-breaking year as far as the size of the Republican majority is concerned, Chairman Penrose will leave nothing undone to rouse the party workers to their best efforts in every county in the commonwealth. He was delighted with the amount of work already accomplished by Secretary Andrews, who remained in charge of the headquarters during the chairman's absence, and was pleased to learn how enthusiastic and earnest the committeemen throughout the state have been in taking hold of the work of the canvass.

Senator Penrose, who reached home on Sunday, after looking after a number of matters requiring his immediate attention, left at once for New York to keep an appointment with Chairman Cortelyou, of the Republican national committee.

During Senator Penrose's absence Chairman Cortelyou wrote to him requesting a conference in relation to a number of matters bearing upon the national campaign which he desired to take up with him. Chairman Cortelyou has been very complimentary in his references to Senator Penrose and in expressing the high regard in which he holds his opinion on political matters and of his appreciation of his strength as a party leader.

Just after the nomination of Roosevelt and before he had left the convention city, Cortelyou called on Senator Penrose and informed him that he desired his active services in the national campaign. He recognized the fact that the Pennsylvania senator had a valuable training in the school of practical politics in his connection with the management of the party organization in this state.

It is quite likely that Senator Penrose will be called to New York frequently during the national campaign, but he will not neglect the canvass in his home state. He has received a number of invitations to address meetings in New York, Indiana, Delaware, New Jersey and other states, and as far as possible will comply with these requests, all of which come from associates in the United States senate, members of the President's cabinet or from Chairman Cortelyou himself.

"We are anxious to carry every doubtful congressional district in Pennsylvania," said Chairman Penrose, in discussing his plans for the campaign in this state. "We now have 29 of the 32 congressmen from Pennsylvania. I would like to make our next delegation solidly Republican, but the best we can hope for, I guess, will be 30 of the 32. Pennsylvania is vitally interested in the present campaign, not merely in retaining a Republican president in the White House, but in seeing to it that both branches of congress shall continue with Republican majorities. The vast manufacturing and other industrial interests of this state have thriven under the Pennsylvania idea of a Republican protective tariff.

"There are many hundreds of thousands of our citizens now finding profitable employment and there are millions of capital invested which would be placed in jeopardy should the Democrats get control of congress and be in a position to carry out their free trade policies. It is all very well to say that the United States senate is reliably Republican, and that the house of representatives of itself cannot pass a tariff act, but it should be remembered that political changes come quickly in this country, and that we should always be on the alert for any contingency that might arise.

"In Pennsylvania this fall we shall be called upon to elect members of the legislature who will in January next elect a member of the United States senate to serve for the full term of six years. The man thus chosen will be elected for a term which will carry him over the next presidential election. He will have two years to serve under the administration of the president who will be elected four years hence, and his vote may be the deciding factor in much important legislation directly affecting the interests of Pennsylvania. This fact must not be forgotten in the balloting for members of the state senate and the state house of representatives when our citizens go to the polls in November next.

"It should also be remembered that changes in but a few districts will give the Democrats a majority in the next house of representatives at Washington. Pennsylvania should therefore hold her own and if possible gain a member or two in the next house.

Why Not?

"If you refuse me I shall never love another woman."

"Does that promise stand good if I accept you?"

A Morning Wedding.

Edward E. Calderwood and Miss Annie M. Snyder were united in marriage at the Columbia Avenue M. E. parsonage Thursday morning at seven o'clock by the Rev. Wm. R. Picken. After the ceremony the happy couple left for Boalsburg, where they expect to spend a few days visiting friends. In the near future they intend to take up housekeeping in Tyrone.

The groom is a steady, industrious young man, an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and the son of James H. and Jennie Calderwood, of Centre county. The bride is highly esteemed by a host of admiring friends. She is the youngest child of David and Annie Snyder, of Tyrone. Numerous friends witnessed their departure for a brief honeymoon, and saluted them with an abundant shower of rice. The best wishes of many friends are extended to them.—Tyrone Herald.

New G. A. R. Commander a Pennsylvanian by Birth.

Pennsylvania shares with Massachusetts the distinction of furnishing the new Commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. Gen. Blackmar was elected from Massachusetts, but he was born in this state, though he passed his childhood in Massachusetts, he went to the front in the Fifteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry. He served in Grant's final campaign, and has been commander of the Massachusetts G. A. R. The sentiment in favor of his election was so strong that "Corporal" Tanner, who was to have put Colonel Shotts, of New York in nomination, induced him to withdraw, and Pennsylvania, in the person of Past Commander-in-Chief Wagner moved to make General Blackmar's nomination unanimous.

Rescued from Drowning.

Merle Williams, thirteen years of age, is the hero of the hour at Scotia on account of his gallant rescue of J. King Lytle from death by drowning. King Lytle, seven years old, was trying to catch a turtle at the reservoir, when he fell into eight feet of water. He had sunk for the last time when Merle Williams, and Mr. Lytle who had been called by a companion of the drowning boy, ran to the rescue. Williams dived into the water, finding the boy between two logs at the bottom and brought him to shore. The limp body was revived by the work of kind assisting hands, and the parents are now rejoicing over the restoration of their only child.

FIRST GUN FOR TEDDY

Republican Clubmen Will Open National Campaign In This State.

WILL FORM FIRST VOTERS' CLUBS

Great Preparations Are Being Made For the Convention of the State League, Which Is to Be Held at Reading.

[Special Correspondence.]

Reading, August 30.

The opening gun of the Republican campaign in this state is to be fired in Reading at the convention of the State League of Republican Clubs, which will be held on September 20 and 21.

While the Union League and the Manufacturers' Club of Philadelphia both sought to have the credit of opening the state campaign, Chairman Penrose, of the Republican state committee, decided that the active young Republicans of Pennsylvania, who constitute the membership of the various clubs which compose the Republican League, should be allowed the opportunity of holding the initial meeting under the auspices of the state organization in favor of Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

Roosevelt, he argued, is an especial favorite of the Young Republicans of the country and the clubmen of the Keystone state who have taken a lively interest in his candidacy should be allowed to lead the fighting for the national ticket in the present contest.

The officers and members of the State League fully appreciate the honor which has been conferred upon their organization, and they propose to make their convention next month one of the most notable in the history of the league. John R. Wiggins, president of the State League, and John Kelly, the secretary, both of Philadelphia, and the other officers of the league are co-operating with the committee of Berks county Republicans who are mapping out the program for the convention, the mass meeting and the various features for the entertainment of the delegates and alternates and other visitors who will be in Reading during the convention week.

Prominent Republicans from almost every county in the state have signified their intention of being present, and it is expected that there will be some splendid oratory both in the convention and at the mass meeting, in support of the national ticket and in arraignment of the Democracy.

Patriotism and aggressive Republicanism will be the order of the day and the campaign in this commonwealth for the election of Roosevelt and Fairbanks will certainly be opened under the most favorable auspices.

The State League of Republican Clubs will plan to hold meetings in every county in the state before election day. Where no Republican club now exists a determined effort will be made to organize one before the campaign shall be well under way.

Where there is a lacking of interest in clubs now on the rolls of the League, organizers will be sent to see that enthusiasm is once more stirred up among the members, and that they are gotten into line without delay.

One of the features of the convention will be the efforts that will be made to enlist the first voters of the state to support the national Republican candidates and the entire party ticket at the coming election.

WANT FIRST VOTERS PREPARED.

First Voters' clubs will be formed wherever ten or more young men about to cast their votes for the first time can be got together. They will be instructed in the method of marking their ballots and urged to attend Republican meetings during the progress of the campaign. They will be pressed into service to aid the Republican county committeemen in their respective districts and will be invited to help in the work of getting doubtful or apathetic voters to the polls. The fact will be impressed upon such young men that many of the most famous statesmen and party men in the history of American politics began their political careers as members of small political clubs or as county committeemen, or simply as helpers at the polls on election day.

Efforts will be made to educate the first voters to a knowledge of the fact that a citizen of this Union can perform no more valuable service to his country than to encourage his neighbors and fellow-townsmen to exercise the right of franchise at every election and to have them study the great questions which confront the statesmen and the lawmakers of the country and which divide the great political parties.

Officers of the State League state that in the present campaign Republicans are eager for a full discussion of every issue that has been raised or is likely to be raised in the pending canvass, and they wish the clubmen throughout the Keystone state to be prepared to meet their opponents whenever occasion shall present.

Arrangements will be made at the coming convention to have documents delivered promptly at the headquarters of the several clubs during the campaign, so that the members shall have a chance to book themselves on all issues.

"Go out of doors and get the air. Ah! if you knew what was in the air. See what your robust neighbor who has never feared to live in it, has got from it, strength, cheerfulness, power to convince, heartiness, and equality to each event."—Emerson.

In this we read between the lines less work for the doctors. The signs of the times point to an enormous increase in intelligent public interest in health. A new generation with purer, stronger blood and therefore more active, braver brains and body. No physically robust, healthy person ever succumbed to grip, consumption, malaria or any other germ disease. But with a weakened system we all have to fight the germs of disease. Our blood is often in a fertile condition for the growth of bacteria—the germs of disease—because our stomach is disordered or our liver is torpid—in either case our blood does not get the proper nourishment. A torpid liver means a stagnation of the blood and an accumulation of poisons which furnishes a weak spot for bacteria to enter. With a dyspeptic the food is not taken up or assimilated by the stomach, and the blood is weak in red corpuscles (not being properly nourished), therefore leaves free entrance for the germs of disease. Not only that but without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Anemia means thinness of blood. It is common in men and young women and all those who work indoors. There are too many white blood corpuscles and not enough red blood corpuscles in such cases, and there is often a peculiar sound heard in the heart, called a murmur, in cases of anemia. This heart murmur is caused by the thinness of the blood passing through the heart, where normally a much thicker fluid should pass. Exactly as water and molasses would make noticeably different sounds in passing through a vent, so will thin and thick blood make sounds quite different from each other. It is quite possible that when you were told you had a murmur in the heart you fancied you had heart disease. The murmur of anemia disappears when the blood regains its natural consistency and richness. It is not heart disease. Sometimes people suffer intense pain over the heart, which is not heart disease, but caused by the stomach. It is the occasion of much anxiety, alarm and suffering, for which its victim is dependent upon reflex disturbances from the stomach caused by indigestion. In the same way many bad coughs are dependent upon these reflex disturbances of what is called the pneumogastric nerve.

There can be no question that the common-sense way of treating all these symptoms is first to cast out the poisons from the system by a simple vegetable laxative such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These are made from botanical extracts, in concentrated form. To enrich the blood and increase the red corpuscles, Dr. Pierce years ago demonstrated in his large practice that there was a vegetable compound that would quickly cure the bad symptoms enumerated above by increasing the red blood corpuscles and thereby feeding the nerves on rich blood and thus doing away with the nervous irritability. This "Medical Discovery" also acts upon the digestion and assimilation of food in the stomach, so that the blood gets its proper food in the stomach. Feed the lungs, stomach and heart on rich red blood and you have surely a healthy body which will throw off the germs of disease which lurk everywhere. Get as near nature's way as you can. A medicine made entirely from botanical extracts and which does not contain alcohol is the safest method. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains no alcohol nor narcotics.

I used five bottles, two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three of 'Favorite Prescription,' and now I am doing my own housework. A number of my lady friends also are using Dr. Pierce's medicine and they recommend it highly. May God bless and prosper you in your grand work."

DEFEATED HEROES.

There was no denying that Mrs. Hulbert had "nerves" in an aggravated form. When there was absolutely nothing to worry about it worried her most of all—and a woman gets to that stage she is hopeless.

Therefore the state she was in when she decided to join some friends at a summer resort and to shut up her flat can readily be imagined. I would be left alone, at the mercy of house-breakers and thieves, to be sure, there was Mr. Hulbert, but as he was a traveling man and home only at brief intervals he did not count in the least.

Mrs. Hulbert's imagination being good she saw her flat in various forms of topsy turviness immediately after her departure, rifled of bric-a-brac and rugs and completely despoiled of valuables. She had no doubt the earger burglars were even then hovering around near corners feverishly waiting for her to get out of sight before pushing in to seize the spoils. She bent all her energies to foil them. The silver she took down to the bank, hiring a cab at the cost of $3

Her furs were stored and she descended on two friends in the building with a petition that they would take charge of her oriental rugs during her absence. Several choice pieces of pottery also she distributed about the habited part of the building and when she had finished if marauders had succeeded in getting in they would have been confronted by a choice between the gas range and heavy furniture.

With her temperament, however, this was not the slightest comfort to Mrs. Hulbert. She though of all sorts of schemes which she confided to every one as each struck her. The back windows had burglar catches and could not be raised. Of course, the glass might be cut out, but she must chance that. After bolting the back door she moved the refrigerator against that. No one but a human fly could scale the front wall and enter by the parlor windows, but the front door bothered her. It could not be bolted, as in that case she herself would be reduced to departing by a rope ladder, which was out of the question. She concluded to leave the window shades up and made every one promise if he or she saw the hint of a light in her flat to investigate at once. And ten days after she left the woman across the hall saw a light in the Hulbert flat. She rang up the janitor and flew to tell the woman on the floor above. In the hall the three reconnoitered and agreed it was indeed the light from a gas jet in the inner bedroom which was reflected through the ground glass of the front door.

It took about three seconds for the news to spread through the building that burglars were in the Hulbert flat. Every one surged down to the second hall landing, The men coming home from downtown added themselves one by one to the crowd. Somebody suggested to the janitor that he use his key and go in. The look of indignation which greeted this was a work of art.

"An wot would I do w'en I got in there?" he inquired majestically. I'll go and telephone the police," he added, and departed hastily. Then a small man appointed himself captain of the flat dwellers and put them where they would do the most good. Three men were sent around to the back porch to intercept the thieves should they attempt to escape that way. The women were ordered away and forwith crowded into the flat across the hall, where they took turns peeping through the crack in the door. One man was sent down to the sidewalk to guard the front of the building and departed amid the envious glares of those who had to stand watch over the door of the Hulbert flat.

In fifteen minutes a squad of blue coats advanced on the building. After deep consultation it was decided to carefully unlock the front door with the janitor's key, make a rush and surround the desperado. Excitement among the flatters approached hysteria at this. The scheme was heartily approved of by the men on guard, who withdrew in haste on the arrival of the policemen. With trembling hands the janitor produced the key, the cleverest minion of the law worked it and the door swung. There was an intense instant and then a tremendous rush on the part of the heroes.

The only drawback to its triumphant conclusion was that the rush was checked in the middle of the Hulberts' parlor by the appearance in the bedroom door of no less a person that Mr. Hulbert himself He had one side of his face still lathered and this, together with his expression of mild interest, was disconcerting, to say the least of it.

"Oh," he said when it was all explained to him. "I guess my wife forgot to tell you I'd be home a couple of days while she was gone. But I'm much obliged."

The occupants of the other flats have quit worrying over Mrs. Hulbert's possessions.

Accident to a Philipsburg Citizen.

Henry Wilcox, the well known carpenter and contractor, of Philipsburg, met with a very serious and probably fatal accident Wednesday. With a force of employes he has been engaged for several days in building a coal dump and trestle for our townsman. Charles D. Loraine, at the latter's mines near Houtzdale. Wednesday while at work on the trestle, Mr. Wilcox lost his balance and fell to the ground below, a distance of fifteen feet, lighting on his back and sustaining very serious internal injuries, the worst feature being the penetration of one of his lung by a broken rib. He was taken to his home, where he is receiving the very best attention from several physicians, and while it is hoped he will rally, his advanced age, 73 years, and the serious character of his injuries, make his recovery hardly likely.

From 148 to 92 pounds.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Might Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strenght." Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

THE GINGER JAR.

Henry's Job.

Now Henry Davis knows for sure
That he is going to run;
He's just as tickled as a kid,
Though he is eighty-one
He's told them he will accept
And try his best to teach.
The voters all to think his way—
He said it in his speech.
But they're not through with Henry yet;
He'll have to write a strong
Firm letter of acceptance at Least seven figures long.

Judgement.

Binks—Parker is a pretty poor Judge."

Jinks—Why, I have always heard that he is an excellent one.

Binks—Oh, he may be all right on the bench of the Court of Appeals, but I mean he is a poor judge of human nature He thinks Dave Hill is a statesman.

But Will They Dare.

"In one way the birth of the heir will give the Russians more freedom," remarked Mr. Scragga from behind his paper.

"What makes you think so?" asked his patient wife, who knew her cue.

"Because now they can refer to the Czar as the old Nick without having to spend a few winters in Siberia."

Only One.

The beautiful girl was trying to reverse her stern parent's decision.

"But, papa," she pleaded, "our hearts beat as one."

"It must be yours, then," replied the p., "for he is certainly a dead beat."

Seeing that all hope was gone, she dried her eyes and went to a pink tea.

Wrong for Others.

Carnegie—I think it is wrong to die rich.

Schwab—So do I. And I think we have done very well in preventing so many people from committing that wrong.

No Such Words.

"Didn't he fail in business?"

"No indeed. He succeeded in getting all his money in his wife's name before the receiver was appointed."

Easy to Please.

"Is he an optimist?"

"Well, rather. He thinks the drought is a good thing for the corn, as it keeps the ears from growing so large as to be cumbersome."

Some Chance, Anyhow.

He had just invested his last twenty-dollars bill in a get-rich-quick concern.

"I might as well," he said. "I have a 1,000 to 1 chance of losing it, but if I took it home it would be an absolutely sure thing."

An Offer.

If Admiral Schley will promise never to mention the battle of Santiago again, we will all agree that he won it, whether he did or not.

The World's Fair

BY A MERE MAN.

No man should start an argument with his wife unless he is a good listener.

It's lots easier to get a wife than to get ride of one

When the best the society reporters can say is that she has a bright face and is very intellectual looking, you know that even then they are straining a point.

It's quite a good deal cuter when some other girl smokes cigarettes than when your fiances does it.

Rouge is poor material to paint a picture of health with.

The World's Unfair.

BY A WISE WOMAN.

Women would be glad to be truthful, but men can not stand the truth.

A man loves a woman for what he thinks she is. She loves him because she knows he is not what he claims.

Some people stay married because there seems nothing else to do.

"You stick to the ship,
boys.
I'll save my life"

seems to be the motto of the average present-day man.

If some men feel as old as they look they ought to be wearing a shroud.

New M. E. Church at Snow Shoe.

The Methodists at Snow Shoe have long felt the need of a new church, realizing that the old one had faithfully served its purposes, and at last have concluded to build a neat and comfortable place of worship. In fact we learn that work on the same has been commenced, and it is the purpose to push it to a speedy completion.

ENCAMPMENT AND EXHIBITON.

Of the Patrons of Hubandry Will Open With Religious Services.

The Encampment will open with a Harvest Home service on Sunday, the 18th of September, the anniversary sermon being preached by Rev. G. W. McIlnay, of the Methodist denomination, at 2:30 p. m. The members of all the churches are cordially invited.

It is but fit that the farmers should open their festival with a Thanksgiving service for the rewards of their labor in tilling the soil. Nothing can do more for the harmony, good-will and unity of the community than the cordial expression of good-will by the general attendance of the members of all religious denominations and all will be heartly welcomed by the Grange association.

At this writing the outlook for the Grange Encampment at Centre Hall is more encouraging than it has been any year in the past.

There will be the largest display of agricultural products ever offered to the public; some Granges taking entire space for themselves, and the farmers generally, are offering exhibits liberally so that there is no doubt of the display along this line. But why should not every farmer follow example and bring some meritorious product? Exhibitors names will be entered on every article and permission be given to take orders for sale.

The State College will enlarge its exhibit over former years.

About fifty tents have already been engaged and new orders are being sent in almost daily so that the camp will be well filled up with tent holders. Parties desiring to camp should send in their orders early so as to enable the committee to make satisfactory arrangements for all who desire to camp.

The display of agricultural implements now promises to be better than it has for years.

It is the desire of the management to enlarge the display of live stock and poultry and therefore urge that those interested in this line of exhibits would help us along.

A first class dramatic company has been engaged for the evening entertainments.

BLACKSNAKE AS WEDDING PRESENT.

Sent From Williamsport to Bride in Philadelphia.

The story of a blacksnake as a wedding present, sent from Williamsport to a former young woman of that city, but now of Philadelphia, is told by the Philadelphia Inquirer as follows: "Excitement of many kinds was caused at the wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. John Doerung, of 5214 Stiles street, Wednesday night, by the arrival of a large box containing it was supposed, a handsome wedding present. The curiosity of the guests was aroused and the box was carried into the parlor and laid upon the floor.

"Surrounded by his friends, all of whom watched his every movement, the bridegroom started to open the box. After much effort he finally managed to open the lid.

"A snake, a big blacksnake, writhed out. In a second he had the room to himself. Gazing about him with wonderment the snake slowly glided over the floor and into the entry. No one greeted him here so he worked his way through the dining room into the kitchen and finally disappeared under the gate. Then the guests returned.

"Doerung was married about two weeks ago to Miss Jennie King, of Williamsport. The box which arrived Wednesday night came from Williamsport.

Such signs besides being unsightly are dangerous.

—In the past twenty months Bellefonte has lost more of its prominent citizens by death, than any other town of its size in the State. W. E. Gray died in November, 1902; in January 1903, both Henry Brockerhoff and ex Governor Hastings died, and since that time C. M. Bower, Geo. L. Potter, J. M. Dale and last of all Col. Wilbur F. 20th ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Centre County.

The twentieth annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Centre County convened in Petrikin Hall at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon and continued in session until Wednesday noon. There was a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the county and the greatest interest was manifested in the proceedings.

The executive committee met at 2 o'clock Monday and at 3 o'clock on the same day the convention was called to order in the beautiful hall which was specially decorated for the occasion. Mrs. A. M. Clees, of Philipsburg, the president of the Centre county W. C. T. U., is the presiding officer. There was music, "Guide Me O Thou Great Jehovah" after which devotions were led by Mrs. Margaret Wilson. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. R. V. Fugh and it was responded to in a graceful manner by Mrs. Kathryn Parker, of Philipsburg. The balance of the afternoon session was taken up with an exchange of greetings and courtesies.

MONDAY EVENING.

This convention is especially honored by having with them so distinguished a personage as Mrs. Mary H. Hunt, of Boston, Mass., whose reputation is world wide. She is the Director and Superintendent of Scientific Temperance Instruction of the World and National Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Hunt has traveled quite extensively all over the World and was entertained last year for an afternoon by the Empress of Germany at the Royal Palace at Potsdam. Monday evening Mrs. Hunt delivered an eloquent address to a large audience in Petrikin Hall. She is a beautiful talker and was listened to with close attention by all present. She is one of the world's greatest reformers and though her tireless efforts she had succeeded in having temperance laws passed in every state and territory in the Union. She described her work and also her visit to the Empress of Germany in a very entertaining style.

Previous to her lecture, devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. John A. Wood Jr., pastor of the Methodist church of this place. Mrs. J. Calvin Meyer and Miss Elsie Weaver sang a very beautiful duett, "Jesus Lover of My Soul." After the lecture there was another duett, this time by W. H. Hardman, of Philadelphia, and Miss Elsie Weaver, the title was "Rock of Ages Cleft for Me." Miss Weaver and Mr. Hardman both have sweet and highly cultivated voices. Their singing was highly appreciated. Mr. Hardman is a member of the Roxbury Quartette of Philadelphia.

TUESDAY MORNING.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Lyda Condo. Then followed the reading of the minutes, report of treasurer, report of corresponding secretary, all showed the society to be in a flourishing condition. Mrs. Hunt then conducted a question box and offered many helpful suggestions.

"Domestic Science and Manuel Training in the Public Schools" was the subject of an interesting paper read by Miss Mary Owen, of Bellefonte.

Miss Sarah Weight, of Bellefonte, read another valuable paper on the subject "Scientific Temperance Instruction in the Public Schools."

The noontide prayer was led by Mrs. L. T. Eddy, of Milesburg.

At 12 o'clock a delightful luncheon was served in the Petrikin Hall cafe to Mrs. Hunt. There was a large number present including all the school directors and teachers in Bellefonte. It was a most enjoyable occasion.

THE COUNCIL MEETING.

Bellefonte Borough Fathers Transact Some Business.

The first meeting of the borough council for September was held on Monday evening in the Council chamber in the Public building on East Howard street. The members present were Mallory, Fenlon, Seibert, Wise, Kirk and Derstine.

In the absence of President Jenkins the chair was filled by Joseph Wise as president pro tem. This is the first time that Mr. Wise has occupied the president's chair but he filled the bill very acceptably. Solicitor Fortney, Water Superintendent Ryan and Street Commissioner Shaughensey were all present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the clerk, Mr. Kelley and approved.

Borgess Walker turned in $10.50 from fines and licenses.

Solictor Fortney submitted a report on the Water Street work. He notified the Bell Telephone Co, the United Telegraph & Telephone and the Edison Electric Light Company to remove their poles on Water street to places indicated by Council. They are a little slow about doing so and Mr. Fortney suggested that the Council get a force of men to work with axes and cut a few poles down and perhaps that would hurry the companies up. He has also made arrangements with the Bush Estate for removing a portion of the hill between the Arcade and Glenn's Photograph gallery. Water street is to have the grade raised and is to be made 35 feet wide. An ordinace is being prepared to that effect.

A small incandescent light is to be placed at the intersection of Howard and Ridge streets.

Residents of East Bishop street complained of the burning of the grass and refuse in the garden of Gotlieb Haag, which occurs about once every two weeks. It was referred to Sanitary committee.

A tree which stands on the walk in front of Blackford's house on Bishop street was complained of and the clerk was ordered to notify the property owner to remove same.

General Beaver Almost Well.

The concern that was felt last week over the condition of Gen. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, has given away to the feeling of pleasure over the satisfactory condition the patient is now in. Gen. Beaver walked to the operating table himself, disdaining to be carried, and it was but a reflection of the soldierly courage that sustained him just forty years and one day before, when he underwent the amputation that was made necessary by his wound at Ream Station.
